

Josue: Working with Josue went well as well. He was quiet every now and then and just focused on doing his part but when we did need him to talk like when he asked questions or needed an opinion, he gladly spoke up and communicated with us. He did the menu part of the project which in me and Brias opinion was the hardest one but he had no problem picking it out himself. He got it done with ease and it turned out really good. Working with him was good and he is an overall good teammate.
